October Meeting for Business Hears Reports and Membership Applications

New Members

Amy Whiffen presented the second reading of her letter requesting membership in Brooklyn Monthly Meeting. Amy grew up in a Quaker family in the Philadelphia area, participating in Quaker youth activities there. She was accepted into membership and greeted by the clerks. The meeting heard the first reading of letters from Eli Gwynn and Emily Walsh, who are engaged to be married.

Brooklyn Meeting Agrees on Requested Donation for New York Yearly Meeting

The request from New York Yearly Meeting (NYYM) for a 3.75 percent increase over last year's donation was considered and approved. $114 was withheld to protest the discriminatory hiring practices of Friends United Meeting, which receives a contribution from NYYM. The discussion regarding the additional funds to Yearly Meeting in 2015 included concerns about transparency in financial reporting, a lack of long term financial planning and a desire for Brooklyn Friends to participate in that planning as Brooklyn is the largest donor to Yearly Meeting. A member of the Yearly Meeting Personnel Committee reported that some of the additional donation may be used for employee compensation.

Collections Committee Reports on the Present Status of Collections

Paul Flint provided comparison between funds raised for the first five months of the present year and last year at the same time. The amount collected was 12 percent less than this time a year ago.

Peace and Social Action Committee Reports on the September 14 Called Meeting on Climate Change

Clerk Jim Morgan read a series of recommendations entitled "What Comes Next?" (discussed in a separate article in this issue). Brooklyn Meeting agreed to send a minute to New York Quarterly Meeting Trustees requesting that the Quarterly Meeting convert our utility accounts as promptly as possible to 100 percent renewable power, using exclusively wind and solar power.

Hospitality Provided for Climate March Guests

Jonathon Fluck reported that the Brooklyn Meetinghouse hosted approximately 30 marchers overnight on September 19, and 40 on September 20. You can read Jonathan's report elsewhere in this issue.

Meeting Donates to Ramallah Friends School

At the recommendation of the Peace and Social Action Committee, Brooklyn Meeting agreed to send $1,000 to the Friends School in Ramallah, Palestine from our Socially Responsible Funds. This school was founded in 1869 and has survived many challenges and upheavals in Palestine. It has also served as a refugee center in times of need.

Dates Are Set For Meeting and School Events

At the suggestion of the Care Committee, Brooklyn Meeting will host the annual Faculty Staff Appreciation Dinner in the Meetinghouse on January 15, 2015. The Clerk will send an invitation to Mary McDowell Friends School and Brooklyn Friends School. Parents will be invited to attend worship with us at 11 a.m. on November 16th.

Flower Committee Reports

Flowers were provided on First Days during the past year, as well as greenery for the Holiday Festival.

Brooklyn Meeting Clerk Calls for Meeting Action on Climate Change

At the October Meeting for Business, Jim Morgan asked Friends the question of "What comes next?" regarding the called meeting and Friends' participation in the Climate March. He made the following suggestions:

Political Action -- Call for the United States government to convert the nation to 100 percent renewable energy by 2050. Telephone Governor Cuomo on Mondays, asking that fracking be banned in New York state. (Cuomo's office can be reached at 518-474-8390.)

Meeting Action -- Request that New York Quarterly Meeting Trustees inform Brooklyn Meeting regarding our holdings in fossil fuel stocks. Ask our Property Committee for an energy survey of our Meetinghouse, leading to a renovation of the building with the goal of making it energy efficient within 15 years.

Community Action -- Organize a vigil, similar to our historic Vigil Against the Death Penalty. Distribute our minute against Climate Change. Distribute our proposal that New York state go to 50 percent wind power, supporting Con Ed's proposed wind farm off of Far Rockaway.

Individual Action -- Challenge members and attenders to switch to renewable energy in their lives.

Hospitality for Climate March Attenders at Brooklyn Meeting

On Friday September 19, Beth Kelly, Paul Van Lindentol and Jonathan Fluck played hosts to approximately 30 overnight guests at Brooklyn Monthly Meeting who had arrived for the weekend activities culminating in the Climate March on the 21st. A few folks dribbled in while the three hosts amused themselves by singing from RISE UP SINGING, with Johnathan accompanying on guitar and Paul on harmonica.

Around 10:30 a vanload of Pennsylvania students arrived and we set about arranging the meeting room for sleeping. Then many went to the social hall to snack and talk. By midnight most had retired to their sleeping bags.

At 3:30 a.m. Walter, the accompanying professor with the Pennsylvania students, was making his way down to the bathroom when he saw a group of young people outside. The Canadians had arrived five hours early! He let them in and they silently made their way upstairs and spread out to sleep.

Daylight streamed into the meeting room. Everyone either got up or was roused, with Walter and the students leaving first to attend a training for a direct action they were planning to confront PNC Bank about mountaintop removal in West Virginia. Everyone else left to participate in climate convergence activities by 9 a.m.

News from Friends Schools: Mary McDowell Teacher Goes to Africa

This past summer, Christine Ross, a classroom teacher of students with learning disabilities, received a grant from the Parents Association to undertake a visiting teacher experience in a girl's school in Tamale, Ghana for four weeks. She taught all subjects, making do with the few materials and resources available, and brought some of our educational methods and ideas to the teachers there. On returning, she shared her experiences and insights with her students and fellow teachers at Mary McDowell Friends School. Marna Herrity, who is on the faculty of Brooklyn Friends School, had previously visited the school we support in the Great Lakes region of Africa. Communication has continued between these schools.

Lissa Wolfe Weds Scott Huntington Steib in Brooklyn Meetinghouse

On the afternoon of October 4th, long-time Brooklyn Meeting member Lissa Wolfe was married to Scott Huntington Steib under the care of Brooklyn Meeting. The meeting room was filled with friends and flowers, and out of traditional silent worship many loving messages were shared with the couple. The Inspirational Ensemble, whom Lissa has been singing with for many years, provided spiritual music. There was an informal gathering in the Brooklyn Meetinghouse after the wedding, and then a large group of Friends marched through the streets of Brooklyn trailing clouds of blue balloons en route to a reception in Red Hook.

Sunday, November 2:

Hike with Worship

For this Hike with Worship we plan to visit Rockefeller State Park Preserve, a lovely, hilly nature preserve criss-crossed by carriage roads. We plan to have two routes, possibly three: one that is moderately easy (4-6 miles) and a second that is moderately strenuous (7-10 miles). If there's a third it will be moderate (6-7 miles). Typically, during hikes, we enjoy a day-long hike in one another's company and have silent worship and lunch at a scenic location.
Transit by Metro North and taxi.

RSVP required to receive hike description, gear list, train times, and last minute updates.
